

Our new dedicom support is online

2024-10-08 - Joachim Ulbrich - dedicom News

We are delighted to welcome you to our new helpdesk pages. Our aim is to offer you the best possible service and to help you with your enquiries quickly and efficiently. On our pages you have the opportunity to search directly in our extensive knowledgebase for frequently asked questions. This allows you to find answers to common problems immediately and help yourself.

Our knowledgebase is continuously updated and expanded to provide you with the latest information and solutions. If you still can't find the right answer, our expert support team is always on hand to help.

In our news section, we will always keep you up to date. Here we inform you about the latest developments, such as new products, the availability of devices or technical faults. So you are always well informed and never miss any important news.

We also offer you the opportunity to let us know your concerns directly via our contact form. Whether you have a question, want to report a problem or simply want to give feedback - we are here for you and will deal with your request as quickly as possible.

We hope that you are satisfied with our new helpdesk and look forward to your feedback. Your feedback is important to us, as this is the only way we can continuously improve our service and adapt it to your needs.
